Instructions to Authors

The main emphasis of the journal is on original research that contributes to the advancement of knowledge in the field of child and adolescent psychology. Manuscripts that report original research will be considered for publication. The journal welcomes submissions on a wide range of topics, including but not limited to:

- Psychological and behavioral interventions
- Developmental and clinical psychology
- Health psychology
- Family systems
- School psychology
- Community psychology

Authors will also be asked to sign a statement proving that the manuscript is original and has not been published elsewhere. Submission of a manuscript implies the understanding that its contents are not under consideration elsewhere.

Manuscript Preparation

Submissions must be in English and should be prepared in accordance with the APA publication manual (7th ed.). Manuscripts should not exceed 25 pages, in total, including title page, abstract, text, references, tables, and figures. Manuscripts that exceed 25 pages should be submitted with a cover letter justifying the extended length.

Abstract

A concise summary of the research findings should be provided. The abstract should not exceed 250 words.

Introduction

The introduction should provide a general background to the research problem, identify the research question, and outline the research hypothesis. The introduction should clearly state the research question and the objectives of the study.

Methods

The methods section should describe in detail the procedures and materials used in the study. This section should include information on the study design, sample size, sampling procedures, and data collection methods. The methods section should be detailed enough to allow other researchers to reproduce the study.

Results

The results section should present the findings of the study. Statistical analyses should be clearly reported, and tables and figures should be used to support the findings. The results section should include all necessary information to allow other researchers to reproduce the findings.

Discussion

The discussion section should interpret the results, relate them to existing research, and provide implications for future research. The discussion should also include a comparison of the results with those of other studies.

References

The references should include all works cited in the manuscript. The format should follow the APA publication manual (7th ed.). All references should be listed alphabetically at the end of the manuscript.

Tables and Figures

Tables and figures should be included only if they are necessary to support the findings of the study. Each table should have a clear title, and each figure should have a clear legend.

Conflict of Interest

Authors are required to disclose any potential conflicts of interest that may affect the results of the study. This information should be provided in a separate section of the manuscript.

Manuscript Style

All manuscripts must be submitted via the journal’s online submission system. The cover letter should include a detailed explanation of the research question and the objectives of the study. The cover letter should also include information on the study design, sample size, sampling procedures, and data collection methods.

File Submission

Manuscripts should be submitted as a single PDF file. The file should be clearly labeled with the title of the manuscript and the authors' names. All identifying information should be removed from the manuscript before submission.

Copyright

The corresponding author will receive a copyright license from the journal. Authors are required to sign a copyright transfer agreement before the manuscript can be accepted for publication.

Funding

The journal accepts manuscripts that are supported by grants or other funding. Authors should disclose all sources of funding in the manuscript. This information should be included in a separate section entitled "Funding." This information should be included in a separate section entitled "Funding."
